FROM THE HELM

Vern Koespel did his part to organize the South Bay Bash -- We, as a club, did not. Only two boats showed up for the sea trials. I cannot believe that we are all such experts on "man overboard" drills that we do not need the practice. Or that we do not need to see how someone else interprets "hove-to". There is more to this sailing stuff than just going around the buoys. You old Pacific cruisers need to be out there teaching those "I gotta boat, now what do I do with it folks?" the tricks of the trade. Every time I study about how to do something and then talk with someone who has actually done it, I am amazed at the difference between the written version and the practical version.

As it is with Vern, he pulled it out of the bag and suggested that we go to the Coronados and anchor there for the night. My crew and I thought that was a great idea! I've been wanting to do that since I first heard of Gorilla Rock. It was one of those mail order days for sailing. NORTHSTAR was doing 5 1/2 kts. most of the way there. Only problem was one of my crew got "bucket between the knees" sea sick and we had to go home. Vern stayed the night. You take your adventures where you find them.

Over the Memorial day weekend Jeannie Luke and I took NORTHSTAR down to Ensenada. We left Fiddlers Cove at 0400 and motored until the wind came up at about 1100. Again, we were doing 5 1/2 kts. on a quarter beam reach. We arrived at
